HARRIET ECCLESTON

autumn winter nineteen

Family photographs, childhood memories & traces of the 1900s family run menswear shop inspired the HARRIET ECCLESTON autumn winter nineteen collection. Following drapers, milliners & tailors back through generations demonstrates how an inherited passion never leaves. One hundred years later, an alternative interpretation of traditional mens clothing is launched, this generation, in the form of womenswear.

In worn edged photographs & an assortment of hand knitted jumpers, it is obvious that some styles stand the test of time, but what if the principles are changed? Contradicting comfortable & oversized characteristics with sharp tailoring results in a distinctive translation of timeless design.
